PRIVACY POLICY

Boren, Osher & Luftman, LLP, also known as BOL | Law, respects and values your privacy. Thus, we want you to know what information we collect from users of our website and how we collect, use, and disclose said information.

PERSONAL INFORMATION WE COLLECT

We collect information about our website visitors directly from the user, from our web server logs, and by using cookies.

When you visit our website, we may collect and process the following personal information:

- Any personal information provided when you complete forms on our website or contact us (e.g., your name, e-mail address, the subject of your e-mail, and your message to us); and
- Details of visits to our website and how you accessed it, including the volume of traffic received, logs, and the resources which have been accessed (e.g., your IP address and Internet service provider, the geographical location from which you accessed our website, the kind of browser or computer you use, the pages you viewed within our website, the date and time of your visit, and the web page from which you arrived to our website).

To offer and provide a customized and personalized service, our website may use cookies and similar technologies to store and help track user preferences. Cookies are small pieces of data that your web server generates, sends to a web browser, which are then stored directly onto your computer's hard drive. If you wish to disable cookies from this website, you can do so on your personal browser settings. We do not respond to do-not-track browser signals.

Please do not submit any confidential, proprietary or sensitive personally identifiable information via our website. If you submit any such information, you do so at your own risk, and we will not be liable to you or responsible for any consequences resulting from your submission of such information.

HOW WE USE PERSONAL INFORMATION WE COLLECT

We use the information collected to communicate with visitors and ensure that we provide a personalized experience that delivers helpful information, resources, and services. Unless required by law, we do not disclose, sell, or give any personal or private information to any third parties except when processing your credit card payment, in which case, your credit card details are provided to our PCI Compliant Payment Processor and Gateway to process your payment only. No payment data is saved during the payment process.

HOW WE PROTECT PERSONAL INFORMATION

We take the security of your information seriously. To prevent unauthorized access, maintain data accuracy, and ensure the appropriate use of information, we have implemented numerous physical, electronic, and administrative procedures to safeguard and secure the information we collect. However, it is impossible for us to guarantee that these measures will prevent any or all unauthorized use of your information.

If you have any questions regarding this Privacy Policy, please contact us at info@bollaw.com or you may also call us at (310) 322-2021.
